

The goalkeeper

A reaction and memory experiment. the aim is to turn off the lights as soon as they light up. It takes some time for the nerve impulses to react with the eye and be switched to outgoing nerves in the brain. It also takes time for the impulses to move through the nerves to the body muscles putting the muscles into work. After all, the whole process goes pretty fast!

The electronics and chassis are developed by Exzine and can be modified according to customer needs.
